

In high dimensions, random directions are nearly perpendicular

Adding thousands more directions barely costs anything at $d = 768$

